Brainware, Inc. names cmd-IT Services GmbH as “Premier Partner”

cmd's product knowledge & extensive European customer base earn Brainware recognition

September 7, 2006, Dulles, VA—Brainware, Inc. Brainware Inc. has named cmd-IT Services GmbH (Bad Homburg, Germany) a “Premier Partner” for reselling Brainware tools and support services in Europe. The recognition reflects cmd's long-standing reseller partnership with Brainware; its well-established customers throughout Europe; and its extensive knowledge of Brainware's IDC-distiller™ and Globalbrain™ technologies.

As a Brainware Premier Partner, cmd is considered a trusted extension of Brainware's European operations, receiving referrals of business opportunities for which cmd is uniquely qualified. “I am delighted to recognize cmd for its exemplary delivery of Brainware solutions throughout Europe,” says Carl Mergele, Brainware CEO. “For customer after customer, cmd has demonstrated its expertise in applying Brainware technologies in some of the most demanding client sites in the world.”

Brainware's IDC-distiller is a breakthrough solution to intelligent data capture (IDC) that reduces processing costs and increases throughput rates by as much as 40% to 80%. Through content-based, “auto learning” techniques, IDC-distiller leapfrogs traditional data capture and forms processing to automatically capture and categorize structured and unstructured data, regardless of form or layout. Captured data can be seamlessly integrated with SAP, Oracle, JD Edwards, and other business applications and document management systems (DMS), significantly improving corporate business performance and topline revenue growth.

Also based on the “content-based” algorithms embodied in the Brainware™ Engine, Globalbrain is an advanced, powerful solution for searching, retrieving, organizing, and sharing information. Available in both Personal and Enterprise editions, Globalbrain offers users throughout an organization instantaneous access to critical information stored in legacy systems and databases, mail and file servers, Internet and Intranets.

“Knowledge-enabled” solutions

cmd provides unique, knowledge-enabled eCRM (Customer Relationship Management) solutions to a variety of European clients. “We supply ‘knowledge enabled’ product families to allow our customers to automate their business processes to achieve unmatched quality and efficiency,” says Stefan Welcker, CEO at cmd. “As an ‘intelligent’ technology, Brainware ‘learns’ information from daily business processes and optimizes corporate performance. With Brainware, our clients automate their back-office processes and significantly reduce error rates. This way, today's ‘knowledge workers’ can use their time for more worthwhile activities—like servicing their customers.”

About Brainware: Brainware, Inc. provides cutting-edge software solutions that enable enterprise organizations to significantly improve document-intensive processes and measurably increase workplace productivity. The company's patented, "intelligent" software engine, Brainware™, drives a suite of powerful solutions for data capture, electronic document management, and search and retrieval for the desktop and the enterprise.
