Brainware records explosive growth in 2007

--Company ends the year with 500% increase in sales, new Global 2000 clients--

January 15, 2008, Ashburn, Virginia USA -- Brainware, Inc., the leading provider of intelligent data capture and enterprise search solutions, today announced that it has recorded explosive growth in 2007, with contract bookings increasing 500% over the previous year. The company has significantly expanded its Global 2000 client roster and quadrupled its office space in the U.S. and Europe to accommodate this rapid growth.

"The startling results have proved that the company's strategic vision is right on the mark," says Carl Mergele, Brainware CEO. "Global 2000 organizations clearly see us as the only company that can meet their demands for high volume, template-free document processing. Brainware technology, that combines intelligent data capture with enterprise search capabilities, allows them to significantly cut costs and increase shareholder value. This year, we will continue to develop new solutions and add more talented employees to expand our market share and better serve our growing list of customers."

In 2007, Brainware continued to add marquee customers across industry verticals. Some of these include:
